TREATY CONFERENCE TO CONTINUE RESULT HITCHCOCK'S THREAT

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Washington, Jan. 27.—Notice was served on republican leaders today by Senator Hitchcock of Nebraska, the administration spokesman, that unless compromise negotiations on the peace treaty were continued he would carry the fight on the senate floor by moving to take the treaty up there.

The notice was given in the reply of the informal democratic compromise committee to the refusal of the republicans to compromise on article ten, of the league of nations covenant. Out of the discussion which followed came an agreement for the bi-partisan committees to meet again on Thursday. Thus the door to compromise was not entirely closed.

Senator Hitchcock agreed that meantime he would not move for senate action. He did not indicate that the democrats would recede from their position and Senator Lodge, the republic leader, said after the conference that the republican conferees had not changed their stand against compromise on article ten and the Monroe doctrine.

Democratic Reply. "The democratic members of this conference have considered the announcement made by Senator Lodge that he and his associates are not willing to consider any compromise on the Lodge reservation concerning article ten, nor on that relating to the Monroe doctrine," said Senator Hitchcock in the democratic reply to the republican ultimatum.

"We desire to say that we entered upon this conference without any reservations or restrictions in the hope that we could compromise differences not only on article ten but on all other reservations. We assumed that the other side of this conference had the same purpose.

Agreement Seemed Near. "The unexpected interruption of the conference and the decision to refuse any compromise on article ten is all the more surprising because it seemed from expressions on both sides of the table that we were close to a possible compromise on this very important reservation by means of the following draft prepared by several senators and already assented to by most of the members of this conference on both sides of the table before the interruption: "The United States assumes no obligation to employ its military or naval forces or the economic boycott to preserve the territorial integrity or political independence of any other country under the provisions of article ten or to employ the military or naval forces of the United States under any article of the treaty for any purpose unless in any particular case the congress which, under the constitution, has the sole power to declare war or authorize the employment of the military or naval forces of the United States shall by act or joint resolution provide. Nothing herein shall be deemed to impair the obligation in article 16 concerning the economic boycott."

Extradition papers were prepared today for members of the communist labor party, thirty-eight of whom were indicted, who are not residents of this state. Seventeen communist laborites have not been apprehended and a vigorous search for them was instituted today.

DISCHARGE WITHOUT HONOR IS URGED FOR SIMS BY DEMOCRAT

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—Rear Admiral Sims, a leading figure in the naval decorations controversy and in the pending senate investigation of the navy's conduct of the war, was vigorously attacked today in the house by Representative Byrnes, democrat, South Carolina.

Declaring that if the Admiral was admonished by a high naval official not to let the British "pull the wool" over his eyes as he testified recently before the senate naval decorations committee he violated a confidence in making the instruction public, Representative Byrnes said "he deserved the condemnation of every American and a dishonorable discharge from the navy."

Senate democrats succeeded again today in blocking efforts of Chairman Hale of the committee investigating decorations to bring to a vote a resolution authorizing the committee to employ counsel. A motion for immediate consideration was defeated 30 to 25. Senators Borah, Idaho, and Sherman, Illinois, republicans, joining with the democrats in opposition.

Supplemental List. A list of 114 naval officers designated by Secretary to receive war service decorations without action by the Knight Board was transmitted by the secretary today to Chairman Hale of the senate naval affairs committee which is investigating the whole subject of naval awards. It supplements a list of enlisted men sent to the committee yesterday.

The list showed eight distinguished service medals were awarded by the secretary on his own initiative. The recipients included Rear Admiral William S. Benson, chief of operations during the war, Rear Admiral W. L. Capps, a member of the war industries board and Thomas A. Edison, president of the naval consulting board. The others, with the exception of that awarded to Lieutenant Commander Daniel T. Ghent, who commanded the transport, Antilles, sunk by a submarine October 17, 1917, went to officers who directed the mine sweeping operations in the North Sea.

Of the 102 navy crosses ninety were awarded to officers who served with the North Sea mine sweeping forces. This work, the secretary explained, was not completed in time to permit consideration of suitable awards by the Knight Board. The remaining navy crosses went to transport commanders, submarine, destroyer and aviation officers.

Ask Government to Keep Roads Longer

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Washington, D. C., Jan. 27.—Continuance of government control of the railroads for at least two years was asked of President Wilson again today by representatives of Farmers' organizations, the American Federation of Labor and the four big brotherhoods. A large delegation, composed of many of the same persons who called at the White House last December 17 went to the executive offices with a letter for the president.

Sentiment in favor of government operation, the letter said, has increased during the six weeks since the first request was made "until we can accurately state that this is the preponderant desire of the farmers and of organized labor forces of most of the states of the union." "The return of the roads, the letter declared would involve an increase in freight rates of 25 to 40 percent, which would mean, it was added, "an increase in the cost of living."

The local chapter of the Red Cross today announced that 13,800 nurses trained during the war were available and had been requested to report for duty in Cook, Lake and DuPage counties.

The Red Cross also announced that 1400 children trained for sick room duty in the juvenile department were available and that 300 women had been released from staff duties to combat the epidemic.

The influenza epidemic which is raging in many parts of the country appears to be very mild in Dixon, and only a very few cases have been reported to City Health Physician, Dr. J. B. Werren. Physicians report that there are many cases in the country and some of these are much more severe than those that have been reported in the city.

HEAVY PATROLS GUARD AGAINST RIOT IN BERLIN

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Berlin, Jan. 27.—Heavy patrols of soldiers guarded the government buildings last night and stopped all traffic over streets in that neighborhood where barricades were thrown up by the troops. Rumors were heard that monarchists had planned an uprising today, which is the birthday of former Emperor William and that Gustave Noske, minister of defense, had massed troops as a precautionary measure.

While government officials have denied any knowledge of an intended insurrection and say the attack on Matthias Erzberger, minister of finance yesterday prompted the mobilization of forces, it is declared the authorities sought to forestall action on the part of the supporters of the imperial regime. It was reported last night that attacks against the independent socialists and radicals were planned as the first step in the monarchist coup.

Deep indignation over the attack on Herr Erzberger was expressed in a proclamation issued last night, the attempted assassination being called "a criminal excess of political warfare."

WILL TRY TO SHOW CONFLICTING OATHS BY SUSPENDED SOLONS

Line of Prosecution of N. Y. Assemblymen is Shown Today.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Counsel for the assembly judiciary committee investigating charges of disloyalty against the five suspended socialist assemblymen indicated at their trial today the line of its attack.

After reading into the records a clause from the national constitution of the socialist party providing for expulsion from the party of members voting to appropriate funds for military or naval purposes, John B. Stanchfield, committee attorney, referred to the oaths of office taken by the five assemblymen and then read from the New York state constitution an article specifying that it shall be the duty of the legislature to provide funds for maintenance of the militia.

By Associated Press Leased Wire. Albany, N. Y., Jan. 27.—Proponents of "The Dictatorship of the Proletariat" hold that the first step must be the seizure of the government by any means possible and the taking over of industry by force, according to a pamphlet read today at the trial before the assembly judiciary committee of the five suspended socialist assemblymen charged with disloyalty.

The pamphlet, published by the Jewish Socialist Federation of New York, was translated from the Hebrew by Charles M. Robinson, a department of justice operative serving the joint legislative committee investigating radicalism, who was recalled to the stand today.

Purporting to give views of both proponents and opponents, the pamphlet asserted the former held preparation must be made for "revolution" and "class dictatorship." Upon the seizure of the industries, they would be run by workmen's soviets, according to the program.

Expect Sensations. Resumption today of the trial was expected to develop "sensations." Following the roar of oratorical cannon which accompanied argument on preliminary motions last week the legal warfare, it has been indicated, will take a different phase.

Counsel for the assembly judiciary committee which is conducting the trial have announced they plan to go "over the top" with most of their evidence this week.

Another Effort Fails. A fourth effort in the house to reseat the quintette failed last night when a memorial from the New York City Bar association opposing the suspension was introduced.

The assembly chamber was well filled when Louis M. Martin, committee chairman, called for order. The first witness was Charles M. Robinson, the federal agent, who served as translator for the joint legislative committee investigating radicalism, who was on the stand last Thursday. He produced a complete translation of a pamphlet on "The Dictatorship of the Proletariat." When the pamphlet was introduced last week the defense objected on the ground that Robinson had translated only excerpts, making a case against socialism as a political philosophy advocating violence. The book, written by "Hail Rogoff" was published by the Jewish Socialist Federation.

Corn Rallied After Day of Depression

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Chicago, Jan. 27.—Corn prices weakened today in sympathy with declines in the value of wheat. Lack of foreign demand has counted heavily against the rye market of late and rye quotations this morning were twenty cents a bushel under recent top figures. In this connection, the fact that foreign exchange had tumbled today to new low records had a further depressing influence. Opening prices, which varied from the same as yesterday's finish to 1/4c lower, including May at $1.35 to $1.35 1/2, and July $1.32 1/2 to $1.32 1/2, were followed by moderate additional setbacks. Oats descended a shade off to 1/4c up, after opening at $1.35, the market underwent a general rise. Provisions were bearishly affected by the collapse of foreign exchange. The market was dull. Later the market rallied, helped by a bullish construction which in some quarters was put upon the business and trade review of the federal reserve bank here. The close was firm at the same yesterday's finish to 1/4c higher with May 1.35 1/2 to 1.35 1/2 and July 1.32 1/2.

NEWS FROM DIXON

WIND BLEW SNOW S. D. & E. MADE PATRONS "GUESS"

Winds which swept over the open country Monday afternoon caused the snow to drift onto the Sterling, Dixon & Eastern tracks more deeply than it has at any time during the winter and threw the interurban schedule into complete chaos. As a result scores of passengers were kept guessing throughout the afternoon and appeals to the company's office failed to make it unnecessary for them to keep on guessing.

At 4 o'clock patrons at the office and those who telephoned to the office were informed that a car would leave for Sterling at 4:45. The car arrived from Sterling at about that time; patrons at the office climbed aboard and those who had been waiting on the street corners continued to wait. After twenty minutes passengers who had boarded the car were informed it would not leave until 6 o'clock, while patrons on the street continued to "guess."

HE WON'T DROP DEAD ANY MORE

"My husband suffered terribly from stomach and liver trouble which caused such bloating of gas as to seriously affect his heart. Doctors warned him that he might drop dead at any time from this trouble. A friend in Cleveland advised him to take Mayr's Wonderful Remedy, and since taking it, 5 months ago, he is feeling like a young man again. All his friends are surprised at his appearance." It is a simple, harmless preparation that removes the catarrhal mucus from the intestinal tract and allays the inflammation which causes practically all stomach, liver and intestinal ailments including appendicitis. One dose will convince or money refunded. At all druggists everywhere.

Wealth Cannot Buy Health or Youth!

All the gold and jewels in the world will not buy back health. It may patch up the broken down machine and make it last a little longer but as an eminent physician recently said: "In the end the old machine wears out."

The body is the most wonderful machine in the world. Its perfection is marvelous but like any delicately adjusted machine it needs intelligent care. Health is worth more than untold wealth.

It has been demonstrated positively—that the human body is merely a collection of cells, and that health depends entirely upon the red blood cells—that carry the oxygen, which is absolutely necessary to maintain human life.

The cells of the body contain 12 different cell-salts—and the absence of these salts causes disease symptoms—just as lack of water causes a plant to droop and die.

These cell-salts attract and retain the oxygen, as it passes from the lungs into the blood, and repair, nourish, revitalize and maintain the health of the cells.

REOLO combines these 12 cell-salts so perfectly that they are easily assimilated by the blood. It has remarkable tonic and reconstructive qualities and furnishes to the blood the invigorating, organic iron—revitalizing, life-giving oxygen and reconstructive cell-salts that nature requires to maintain health, strength and energy.

Don't neglect your health. It's easier to "keep well" than to "get well"—and much less expensive. If you are not feeling well—take the systematic REOLO Treatment that makes rich red blood vitalized with life-giving oxygen and the cell-salts that Nature must have to keep the body strong and healthy.

BALL BUT TWO WEEKS OFF—

Just two weeks from tonight St. Agnes' Guild will give its masquerade ball in Rosbrook's hall. Preparations are going on apace to make of it one of the most gorgeous spectacular events ever given in Dixon and costumes are being feverishly planned by different groups of individuals who plan to take part in the masking.

Much speculation is rife on who are to be king and queen and the members of their large retinue of courtiers, but not so much as a tiny whisper has seeped through the wall of secrecy raised by the guild members to keep the public from knowing until the moment is ripe for denouement, the evening of the Mardi Gras ball, Feb. 10th.

Just a tip to the busy ones who haven't time or the inclination to prepare their own costumes—the Boynton-Richards store has a catalogue of all sort of beautiful costumes and selections may be made and the garments secured in plenty of time if the selections are made right away.

SILVER ANNIVERSARY—
The twenty-fifth anniversary of the Ladies' Aid society of the German Lutheran church was the occasion of a delightful anniversary celebration held at the church on Saturday afternoon.

A service of song, scripture reading, prayer, and addresses was the program of the afternoon, with a supper served afterwards in which about seventy-five members of the society and of the church participated.

The addresses of the afternoon were given by Rev. W. Krebs, of Rock Falls, and the local pastor, Rev. G. A. Graf. The former spoke of the help the Aid Society can be to the church and interspersed through his remarks much good advice. Rev. Mr. Graf gave a resume of the work done by the Dixon society in its quarter century of labors.

Silver vases bearing marigold, Mignonne, and fern adorned the supper tables. Evergreen bouquets, be-sprinkled with silver, and festoons of silver leaves further decorated the church and added greatly to the festive appearance.

BATES-HERMANN WEDDING—

This morning at 8 o'clock at St. James Catholic church, at Lee, Ill., Miss Hilda H. Herrmann, daughter of P. X. Herrmann, of Willow Creek township, and Fred J. Bates, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Bates, of Alto township, were united in marriage. Rev. Fr. Quinlisk was the celebrant. Miss Alberta Herrmann served her sister as maid of honor. The best man was the groom's brother, Ralph Bates.

A suit of beaver brown was worn by the bride. The maid of honor wore a suit of navy blue tricotine. Both carried prayerbooks.

DINNER—Baked bean soup, lamb chops, scalloped potatoes, creamed cauliflower, dressed lettuce, prune pudding, coffee.

My Own Recipes
The perfect winter dinner starts with soup. In serving soup with a dinner remember that the rest of the food has a very definite part to play and that the whole meal need not be made of the one course. Of course a rich meat and vegetable soup with bread and butter and a dessert will make a well-balanced and nourishing ration.

SCALLOPED CORN WITH SWEET POTATOES
1 cup solid corn
1/2 cup cooked sweet potato cubes
1 cup white sauce
1/4 cup fine bread crumbs
Coarse bread crumbs
Into a well buttered baking dish put a layer of the fine bread crumbs. Mix corn, sweet potatoes and white sauce and put in baking dish. Sprinkle the coarse bread crumbs over the top, dot with bits of butter and put in an oven for 20 minutes. Brown the crumbs under the broiler.

ENGLISH TEA CAKES

1 1/2 cups flour
1/2 cup sugar
1/2 teaspoon salt
2 teaspoons baking powder
1 1/2 cup butter
1 egg
2 tablespoons milk
Sift flour, sugar, baking powder and salt together. Work in butter with fingers. Add currants. Beat egg. Reserve 1 tablespoonful of egg to brush over top of cakes before baking. Add milk to the first mixture. With the hands roll dough into balls the size of an English walnut. Put in a buttered pan not touching each other, brush over with the egg, sprinkle with sugar and bake in a quick oven. Serve hot.

BAKED BEAN SOUP

2 cups cold baked beans
4 cups water
1 small onion
Leaves of 1 head of celery
1 cup tomato juice
1 tablespoon butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 tablespoon chili sauce
Salt and pepper
Simmer beans, water, onions and celery in a sauce pan for 30 minutes.

Rub through a sieve and add tomato chili sauce, salt and pepper. Cook butter and flour together and stir into soup.

WALLIS

"America's Foremost Tractor"

Get a Tractor of Proved Dependability

Farmers of this section should get these important tractor facts before they buy.

There isn't a farmer who can afford to buy a tractor that is an experiment.

With hundreds of tractors on the market, many of which will prove impractical, just as did many of the earlier models of automobiles, we feel it our duty to advise our customers to investigate carefully before they buy.

The Wallis Tractor gives you a double feeling of confidence on this point.

First, the Wallis is built by the J. I. Case Plow Works Company—an institution founded and built on the principle of manufacturing only quality products.

Second, and most important, the Wallis has proved its dependability by 12 years of successful performance on American farms.

Moreover, the Wallis success is based upon real and tangible mechanical superiorities. For example, the Wallis famous patented "U" frame and simplified construction makes the Wallis weigh 1000 to 3000 pounds less than others designed to do the same work.

The Wallis valve-in-head motor; the gears made of cut and hardened steel; the manner in which all working parts are enclosed in dust-proof housings and run in a constant bath of clean oil and the careful way in which all vital parts are machined to the thousandths part of an inch—all these things tell plainly the reason why Wallis has proved so dependable and trustworthy. Come in any day and ask us for full details.

THE LION'S TAIL.

Isn't it about time to give the lion's tail a rest? Admiral Sims says somebody told him when he started for England, after we had broken relations with Germany that we would just as soon fight the British as the Germans. Kindergarten stuff! Anybody who said that must have been pulling the good admiral's leg. Or else qualifying for a lunatic asylum. The difference between fighting Germany and fighting Great Britain in the late war was the difference between fighting against a military autocracy and fighting against a democracy. Whoever says we would just as soon fight one as the other has a lot to learn about Americanism.

The only nation in the world that speaks our language, is governed by the same fundamental laws as ourselves, has the same democratic ideals as we have, is influenced by the same literature and reacts to the same tests of justice, is the British nation. The only boundary line in the world that doesn't have to be protected is the boundary line between the United States and British Canada. The only nation in the world that would come instinctively to our help if ever we were hard pressed in war-time is Great Britain. The only nation we can trust to understand us in the period of readjustments to world conditions through which we are now passing is the British Empire.

What do we gain by going out of our way to twist the lion's tail? That pastime ought to have been discarded when we grew up sufficiently to be able to celebrate the Fourth of July without banging off firecrackers. Great Britain needs us, and we need Great Britain. That is a fundamental fact in international relations. Sometimes, however, a jingo arises to contradict it. Then Germany, Russia and Japan move closer together. For, if ever the United States becomes permanently embroiled with Great Britain, the day of Anglo-Saxon civilization will be done. Germany, Russia and Japan will mark that day as theirs. Deep down in our understanding, we know this to be true.

HOUSES.

America—a considerable part of it—is due to go houseless.

Those who can get roofs for their heads are paying dearly for the privilege, and are due to pay more.

The American Institute of Architects in a letter to the President's Industrial Commission thus summarizes the acute housing situation in the United States. It has sent a copy of its letter to all congressmen and other public bodies and public-spirited citizens.

When the people of the United States were confronted with this acute problem during the war, and it seemed certain that unless some remedy was devised, munitions wouldn't get manufactured, ships wouldn't get built, and consequently the war might be lost, something WAS done about housing. It was done quickly, efficiently and without hesitation.

Uncle Sam, faced with the fact that private initiative couldn't or wouldn't meet the situation, met it himself. The U. S. Housing Corporation was formed, and it built houses. It built them expensively perhaps—maybe wastefully, but it put roofs over the heads of workers at moderate rentals, and so it helped win the war. The workers at Bridgeport, New London, Norfolk, Philadelphia—and dozens of other munitions and shipbuilding centers, now living in the comfortable, beautiful, modern dwellings that Uncle Sam put up, can testify that the government DID build houses.

The armistice came. The government was demobilized. So was the housing corporation. Under pressure, it abandoned its work, sold material, half finished houses, equipment and supply. Its organization vanished; work stopped.

And now we are more than ever in need of houses; private initiative can't or won't supply the deficiency; rents are rising, industrial unrest increases. The American Institute says the situation is getting worse, and will be much worse.

Now comes a woman who wants a law which would divide the family income 50-50 between husband and wife. That would be a great boon to henpecked husbands who now divide on a 100-0 basis, keeping the short end.

Compared with William Jennings Bryan's present activities, the life of the well known one-armed paper hanger with the hives was that of an idle dreamer.

LITTLE BOW AN' ARROW

Sometimes he was a Greek who held the pass against the foe;
Sometimes he was a Roman laying other legions low;
Sometimes he was an Iroquois and crouched within the wood,
And sometimes he was Richard and sometimes Robin Hood.
And sometimes I would be his son and he'd be William Tell
And though the arrow missed a mile, the apple always fell!
So the old historic heroes crowd my memory today,
Since I found the bow-an'-arrow with which he used to play.

He brought a string, a barrel-hoop, a spindle and a feather;
He laid them down demanding that I put them all together,
And could I, a grown-up white man, one for whom all Time had planned,
Could I admit an Indian could beat me with one hand?
Not for the honor of my race I made the bow and arrow,
Though it wouldn't hit a target and it couldn't harm a sparrow!
And all his happy childishness romps back to me today,
Since I found the bow-an'-arrow, with which he used to play.

The bow bent just about as much as one can bend a brick,
The arrow flew a shorter space than one can fling a stick,
But it was a bow of promise and it was a shaft of light
To the little lad who lugged it 'round from morning until night,
For he was living over every age the minstrels sing
Since man first bent a bow and notched an arrow to its string.
And I was living with him jollier days than these today,
Since the little bow-an'-arrow has forgotten how to play!

PASTEURIZE YOUR MILK.

Milk for the baby should always be pasteurized in the feeding bottle. It may be done as follows: The milk should be mixed and poured into the clean feeding bottles, which should then be stopped with clean, non-absorbent cotton. It is then ready for pasteurization. While a number of satisfactory pasteurizers may be bought in the shops, a home-made pasteurizer can be easily constructed.

Take a wire basket that will hold the six or seven bottles used for 24 hours and place this basket containing the bottles in a tin bucket of cold water filled to a point a little above the level of the milk. Heat the water and allow it to boil for five minutes. Then set it to one side for ten minutes more, after which run cold water into the bucket until the milk is cooled to the temperature of the running water. The milk is then put into the ice chest, which should not be warmer than 50 degrees Fahrenheit.

If the baby's milk is to be mixed with other ingredients, such as oatmeal, barley water, rice water, sugar, etc., these should be added to the milk before pasteurization. When the milk is once prepared the bottle should not be opened until it is given to the baby.

Q—Last spring I had scarlet fever, and since then my knees have hurt me dreadfully. I feel dull and achy all over. Everything I do is a great effort. My vision is often blurred. My doctor tells me I have a dangerous heart trouble, should take it easy and avoid going downstairs as much as possible. This I cannot do. My husband suggested the use of electricity. Please advise me.

A—I believe it would be most unwise to use electricity for the condition which you describe. It would not only be a waste of money, but might make the condition worse. In matters of this kind the only safe plan is to follow the advice given by a qualified physician who is thoroughly familiar with the case.

 ANSWERED.

Q—Please publish the name of medicine that will cure gonorrhea.

A—There is no one specific medicine that will cure gonorrhea. The effects of this disease are so serious, and its proper treatment requires such skill, that a qualified physician should at once be consulted. Be sure not to attempt self-treatment, or to rely on misleading statements made by advertised quacks. If you will send me your name and address, I shall send you some helpful bulletins.

WHAT IS THE BEST JOB IN THE WORLD?

By HENRY P. DAVISON,
Bank President, Financier and Member of the Firm of J. P. Morgan & Co.
As Reported by B. C. Forbes, Editor of Forbes' Magazine.
"Mr. Morgan wants to see you in his library at 3 o'clock," was the message received one day by the vice-president of a New York bank.

He hadn't the slightest idea what the veteran financier could want with him.

Promptly at 3 o'clock the young banker, wondering what the matter could be, rang the bell of famous Morgan library.

"Are you ready?" asked Mr. Morgan.

"Ready for what?" queried the astonished visitor.

"You know I want you to come and join my firm on the first of January."

"You never said anything about it, Mr. Morgan."

"I thought you knew by my attitude what I thought of you," said Mr. Morgan.

A pause.

"Mr. Morgan, have you ever fallen from an 18-story building?"

It was Mr. Morgan's turn to be astonished.

"No," he replied, scrutinizing his visitor.

"Well, I never have before, and it will take me a minute or two to catch my breath."

Mr. Morgan laughed.

And that was how Henry P. Davison, then only 40, was notified of his selection as a partner in the greatest international banking firm in the United States.

"In climbing the ladder of success what have you learned that you could pass on to aid other struggling young men?" asked Mr. Davison.

"Did you conceive any shining goal and bend everything to reaching it?"

"No," he replied, emphatically.

"Whatever job I had was to me always the very best job in the world, and I tried to fill it. I made no elaborate plans for the future. If I had any system in my labor it was first to do my own work; second, to teach the fellow below me how to take my place; third, to learn how to fill the position ahead of me."

"Boys and young men should not imagine that their work is so unimportant that nobody takes note of how they do it. It does not take long to find out whether a boy is on his toes watching how he can best be of help in a situation or whether he merely sits down and waits to be told what to do. The simple virtues of willingness, readiness, alertness and courtesy will carry a boy farther than mere smartness."

He'd show them city fellows!

Still feel oppressed and bellers!
If they'd come down to this here town
We'd show 'em how we do it,
Up with the sun and when you're done
The sun has beat you to it.
Eight hours hey! That's half a day.
Sixteen, they'd work by gum,
And more besides, but dang their hides.
The silly fools won't come."

Man has accomplished much with the brain with which he finds himself equipped: He imagined wireless communication and made it a reality; he imagined the airplane and ferried with took to the sky. He is to be credited with the automobile, the locomotive, the dynamo and electric motor, clocks and typewriters and steel construction, anesthesia and strange, effective means of torture.

He accomplishes, and changes the faces of the world in direct ratio to the facility with which his imagination functions, and a lot of folk, satiated with the seeming wonder of the things made possible by man's imagination, complacently tell each other that anything is possible, and that the marvels of the second decade of the twentieth century aren't anything to what the world will know a couple of centuries hence. But don't forget that as man's imagination is, so is he.

Man's brain is acrobatic, but:

You can't imagine yourself not in existence; just blown out. Though you picture yourself dead, still are you there drawing the picture of your dead self for yourself. Whether you visualize history or imagine the future, you inevitably are in the time you conjure up, not taking part in events perhaps, but at least filling the role of stage manager, as it were.

Many travelers hesitate to take such precaution. Some fear the hotel clerk will think they haven't money to waste. Others are intimidated by the clerk's superior manner of confidence that a guest would scorn to save $1 or $5.

Forever and forever an airplane will be the most splendid sight in the world to me. I heard the whirr of Jim's propeller and I gathered Baby Babs in my arms long before the delicate black beetle which was his machine was silhouetted against the glare of the Mexican sky.

The Peons Are Awestruck When Jim's Airplane Arrives.

All the countryside seemed asleep for the hour of the siesta was not yet over, get the whole region buzzed in competition with the plane as it circled above the city. Then the "bus" swooped low over my S. O. S., then zoomed and was off into the clouds and for a fearful moment I fancied that the visitor was only some chance wanderer of the clouds and not my promised rescuer.

At last the aviator achieved his landing, but not before the whole town had descended upon us, by auto and mule and horse and burro, and on foot. The entire city came out to the hacienda, as Morrison had predicted. And the 10,000 peons who had once worked the ranch seemed to troop up from their graves, so closely did the crowd pack itself around the aviator.

Morrison pushed to his side and turned him around, so that I could see his face. He was clad in a mechanic's leather overalls and coat and I missed the glorious silver wings a pilot in the air service wears above his heart. But it was Jimmy—and being Jimmy was a guarantee that I was soon to be snatched out of that crowd. But how?

The aviator spoke some Spanish, of a variety which the natives seemed to enjoy, and in his own dialect he let it be known that he was bound for Mexico City, but he had been compelled to alight on this magnificent field in order to walk around his engine and attend to a little cough it had developed. He cured the little cough with a little oil. He was a good-natured airman. Hearing that his was the first plane to stop at San Jose, he volunteered to take up a few passengers—for a consideration—a very small price.

Morrison, buyer of coffee, paid the price and ascended to the cloudland. But the pilot and passenger didn't stay up long—they couldn't talk at all in the ship, and I wasn't surprised to see them land in a distant corner of the field. They had time for quite a chat before the crowd could surround them again.

Morrison was enthusiastic about his experience and several of the rich merchants clamored for a ride. But the pilot picked out the administrator of the hacienda (I suppose that Morrison had pointed him out) and offered a free aerial excursion in return for the use of his flat field.

After a bit of urging, the flattered Mexican was securely strapped into the observer's seat and the ship taxied out of the crowd and zoomed over the banana trees at the edge of the road.

The detective watched them rise, then sauntered slowly up to me. He had instructions from Jim—who hadn't even glanced my way! As it happened Morrison was able to speak to me without fear of eavesdroppers. The crowd had gone mad with excitement—and apparently the pilot had gone crazy!

He looped the loop, did the trapeze, ascended a great distance, and came down in a falling leaf, side-slipped hundreds of feet, until I prayed that he would stop his antics. Last of all he did a barrel roll. And when he landed, his passenger had to be helped out from the car. He was deathly sick and helpless as if he had been tossed about in a storm at sea. He had to be supported by his quarters by his obedient but reluctant servants. He wasn't in shape to think of Babs, nor interfere with me!

The aviator was deeply relieved—but he cheered up a little at sight of an American girl! He doffed his helmet most politely, but spoke in the vernacular:

"You next! Sure! No stunts! I promise!"

ADVENTURES OF THE TWINS

by Olive Roberts Barton

The way to the palace of The Land of Lost Things was very interesting, and Nancy and Nick were kept busy saying, "Oh, look there!" and "Oh, see here!" and "Oh, look at that!"

And it kept General Pershing, the tin soldier, very busy explaining things. Of course the children could understand the tin soldier's language perfectly now with their friend the magical mushroom along, and their little green shoes were very useful, too. How else could they ever get small enough to ride in a lost soldier's taxicab that had lost pennies for wheels?

Nancy noticed the lamp posts first, and the telegraph poles. "Why, they are all lead pencils," she exclaimed delightedly, clapping her hands.

"Lost lead pencils!" corrected the tin soldier. "There is a difference. And lost fountain pens, too! You see children don't lose all the things."

"Would you mind driving a little slower?" asked Nick. "I've lost so many lead pencils and Daddy said he wouldn't buy me any more. I might find some of mine here."

"Of course, I'll drive any way you like," answered General Pershing. "Only, as the whistle told you, things don't come here until they are lost for good. You can't take them back."

"Then I hope we won't find our lost monkey here," declared Nancy promptly.

"The only thing is," answered the soldier thoughtfully, "that if he isn't here, he isn't lost, that's all," said Nick. "There! That yellow pencil with the brass top is the one I traded Snoopy Smith my ball for. I was trying to poke a bug out of a hole and it went down."

Suddenly, bang! Crash! The taxicab skidded right into the lead pencil lamp post and spilled the twins out. But they weren't hurt a bit and jumped right up.

A Modern Story of Home and Business

DINNER AT MARY'S.

CHAPTER 44.

"I thought you two had thrown me down!" was Mary's greeting.

"No danger of that! Gerry she was too anxious for a good dinner," Robert replied.

Well, it is all ready. You see I am prompt! Mary pointed to the Big Ben ticking away on the little shelf over the kitchen table, now converted into a guest table.

"Two rooms was all I could afford and I'd rather eat in my kitchen than in my drawing room. You see my chaise longue is in there and all my expensive bric-a-brac. Something might get hurt. Then: Dinner is served, Madame," she said pretty, as she draped a towel over her arm and held her chair for me in exact imitation of a waiter.

"You're a good little scout. Mary to ask us to dinner," Robert said, his mouth full of delicious creamed potatoes. "Where in the world did you learn to cook?"

"I told Mary that bookstores kept open to sell books, and that I could read. That's the secret of good cooking—of course, if one hasn't got no brains, they can't do anything right. But with a good cookbook, cooking is just fun."

"This is a splendid steak," I broke in, delighted that Robert was enjoying himself somewhere beside at Marion Hovey's. "You shouldn't have been so extravagant. Our landlady says eating steaks is just like eating money nowadays."

"That's the reason we don't get any," Robert added.

"I shall have steak often. But once in a while it won't hurt me. I have enjoyed my meals so much, Gerry, and have kept account of every single penny I have spent. I live cheaper than I did in her measly third floor back, and have a room to see my beau in besides. You see that cookbook I bought tells how to fix over all the leavings. They are nicer than when they are first cooked, too—some of them. I don't waste a crumb—I give them to the birds. But honest, I shall save money living here."

"It sounds funny to hear you talk of saving money," Mary's generous habits, were well known.

"But, you see, I have something now to save it for. I need a rolling pin dresfully. I rolled that pie crust with a beer bottle!" She was clearing the table for her desert, which was a thick, creamy lemon pie.

"I don't care what you rolled it with—it's delicious!" Robert declared.

"And I need a lamp to read by—that gas jet in my drawing room is too high. It ain't reherka to eat in the kitchen you know. Then it interferes with my servants." The flourish with which she accompanied this speech sent Robert off into peals of laughter.

"I'd like to see anyone be blue when you are around," he said, "even a man who is out of a job."

"You'll land something soon," she encouraged.

"I hope so—for Gerry's sake. It's hard on her."

"Don't worry about her, Robert. Don't let her heart, but she's been having things too easily lately. Your and all such pleasant things helped her. She's getting—fat!" in a horrified whisper.

"Aren't you ashamed to malign me so to my own husband?" I exclaimed as, after eating his second piece of pie, Robert declared he must go.

"I guess he knows—he has eyes! Then: Must you go, Robert? I thought you and Gerry would spend the afternoon with me."

"Gerry will, but I have an errand I must do. I will come back and get her."

"We'll have the leavings and call it supper," she called after him. Then turned to me: "Is he going to look for a place?"

"No, Mary. He is going to Marion Hovey. She is in some sort of trouble, and sent for him." Something I couldn't explain impelled me to give her the true reason for Robert's desertion.

"It's good of Robert," was what she said, but she looked troubled as she added: "We'll hurry the dishes out of the way and have a nice long talk."

WOMEN SHOW LITTLE INTEREST IN FIGHT

But 30 of 25,000 Cards for Complaints Are Returned.

By Associated Press Leased Wire

Chicago, Jan. 27.—The Illinois Women's Fair Price Commission which distributed 25,000 blank "complaint" cards, received only ten replies from women who believed they were victims of profiteers.

Mrs. Joseph T. Bowen, head of the commission, announced today. Twenty cards bearing vague information and charges were returned to the United States district attorney's office. One card carried a long complaint about the price of humming birds and another protested against profiteering in skunks.

"There are three reasons I can think of for this poor response to the complaint campaign," Mrs. Bowen said. "First, public resentment over high prices may have been overestimated. Second, people who believe their dealer is gouging them would rather pay the excessive price than run the risk of being called as a witness at a court prosecution. Third, dealers have threatened that informants will be blacklisted and repaid for turning in complaints by having their service and credit cut down."

"I have heard a number of dealers have made this service threat but it is still disappointing to know that the public will not take the trouble to fill out and send in the cards which must be the basis for the prosecutions."

First Woman Now on Trial Under California Law

Mr. Cream Producer:

When I opened up my place of business I decided to keep my eyes and ears open in order that I might find some way I could be of service to my friends, old and new, and I have hit on the following plan: I know from experience and observation that we are not all large enough farmers to contract with Milk Factories; I also know some of us would be glad to have our Skim Milk—this we cannot get if we sell whole milk and I know there are plenty of people who have for a long time wished for a place to sell their cream and yet not have to ship their cream and maybe lose their can, wait for can and check and suffer other inconveniences. NEWBERRY AND 122 OTHERS GO TO TRIAL TODAY

Court Room Filled with Jury, Lawyers and Accused.

By Associated Press Leased Wire
Grand Rapids, Mich., Jan. 27.—United States Senator Truman H. Newberry and 122 other men prominent in Michigan politics went on trial in the federal district court here today charged with conspiracy, fraud and corruption in the 1918 senatorial election. The importance of the issue involved, the prominence of most of the defendants and the imposing array of legal talent presaged one of the most notable cases in the legal annals of the state.

Of the 125 men indicted by the federal grand jury last November, nine have entered pleas of nolo contendere, the case of one has been continued, owing to illness and another, upon whom service has not been obtained, was said to be in South America. Twenty-three pleaded "not guilty" and 101 stood mute when arraigned.

50 Defense Lawyers

The government's case was in charge of Frank C. Daley, former United States district attorney at Indianapolis, who prosecuted the Terre Haute election cases. Martin W. Littleton, who last week withdrew as counsel for the New York assembly committee trying the five suspended socialist assemblymen, headed the legal forces of the defense, which are said to number about fifty.

Aside from the defendants, the 125 veniemen, attorneys, court attaches, and nine newspaper men, few were able to gain admittance to the opening sessions of the trial and the little court room of Judge C. W. Sessions had to be rearranged to seat these.

The possible duration of the trial was variously estimated at from four weeks to two months.

United States Senator Truman H. Newberry and 124 other men were charged with corruption, fraud and conspiracy by the federal grand jury which investigated the senatorial election of 1918. When the indictments were returned Nov. 30, last, United States District Judge C. W. Sessions, who assembled the jury, indicated that evidence obtained by the inquisitors disclosed that between $500,000 and $1,000,000 had been expended fraudulently in connection with the election.

The indicted men included every member of the committee that conducted the Newberry campaign and state, county and municipal officials in virtually every county from Lake Superior to the Ohio border.

Two Blanket Indictments.

The conclusions of the grand jury were embodied in two blanket indictments. They charged violation of both federal and state laws by use of money far in excess of legitimate expenses in the campaign; and violation of the federal corrupt practices act, which penalizes payment of money to voters. Use of the mails "to defraud all the people of Michigan," was further charged against the campaign committee. More than $100,000 of the contributed fund, it charged was converted to the personal use of some of the campaign managers.

James W. Helme, former state dairy and food commissioner, who opposed Henry Ford for the democratic nomination in the senatorial primary, another clause of the indictment alleged, was compensated by the Newberry organization for making the primary race. The alleged purpose was to prevent democratic voters from "lining up" with Ford in the republican primary.

Charge "Overt Acts."

Attached to the indictments was a list of more than two score "overt acts."

These contained charges that a number of those indicted had given rewards ranging from promises of a "good job" to payments of sums ranging from $5 to $2,500 in return for support in the Newberry campaign. One country editor was alleged to have received a ton of print paper.

The grand jury investigation was conducted by Frank C. Daley, of Indianapolis, former United States attorney for Indiana. It was ordered by the Department of Justice, Oct. 18, and was based, it was announced, on complaints filed with the department "and also published charges of fraud and corruption" made by Lieutenant-Governor Dickinson of Michigan, and others.

Sensor Newberry and thirteen of the men who directed the campaign work in 1918, appeared before Judge Sessions, Dec. 8 and on the advice of counsel stood mute. This was done, it was explained, that the validity of the indictments might be challenged later, should it be decided to attack them. The right to raise technical questions, it was stated, would have been sacrificed by pleas of not guilty.

Sensor Newberry and each of the thirteen men who appeared with him were held in bonds of $10,000 and $5,000 on the first and second indictments, respectively.

The maximum penalty for the offenses charged, is a fine of $10,000 and two years imprisonment.

A Stubborn Cough Loosens Right Up

This home-made remedy is a wonder for quick results. Easily and cheaply made.

Here is a home-made syrup which millions of people have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up stubborn coughs. It is cheap and simple, but very prompt in action. Under its healing, soothing influence, chest soreness goes, phlegm loosens, throat opens and you get a good night's restful sleep. The usual throat and chest colds are conquered by it in 24 hours or less. Nothing better for bronchitis, hoarseness, croup, throat tickle, bronchial asthma or winter coughs.

To make this splendid cough syrup, pour 2 1/2 ounces of Pinex into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with plain granulated sugar syrup and shake thoroughly. If you prefer, use clarified molasses, honey, or corn syrup, instead of sugar syrup. Either way, you get a full pint—a family supply—of much better cough syrup than you could buy ready-made for three times the money. Keeps perfectly and children love its pleasant taste.

Pinex is a special and highly concentrated compound of genuine Norway pine extract, known the world over for its prompt healing effect upon the membranes.

To avoid disappointment ask your druggist for "2 1/2 ounces of Pinex" with full directions, and don't accept anything else. Guaranteed to give absolute satisfaction or money promptly refunded. The Pinex Co., Ft. Wayne, Ind.

GRACE CHURCH ACTIVITIES.

Rev. B. R. Schultze, of Freeport, delivered a practical sermon at Grace church on Sunday morning in which he declared that the church is the best institution in the world. The pastor said, "I was glad when they said unto me, 'Let us go into the house of the Lord.' Why must people be invited to come to church? Don't they know a good thing when they see it?"

An elderly lady was wading to church through banks of snow that made walking very difficult. A friend in passing her said, "What do you mean by attempting to go to church through this deep snow?" She replied, "My spirit has been in the house of God all morning and my body may see how it can get there." Such people are the pillars of the Lord's work.

Among the reasons which Presiding Elder Schultze gave why we should attend Divine services are the following: We meet God in His house. In his recent trip to Pennsylvania he learned that in many United Evangelical churches there, it is still customary for people to engage in silent prayer immediately after they take their seats in the sanctuary of the Lord. Reverence is the secret of acceptable worship. The great majority of church members were converted in the house of God. There it is where we hear God's word. There we meet with other members of God's family and our faithful attendance is a testimony to the unsaved, both present and absent.

If an angel were to visit Dixon, Freeport and Rockford, what would he say about the people who never go to church? His personal experience of joy and blessing in the service of God would make it impossible for him to understand their indifference to eternal things.

The young people's meeting was exceptionally rich in the presentation of missionary items and facts.

In his sermon on Sunday evening Rev. Unangst taught his hearers the secret of victory over doubt, fear and worry. George Muller said, "Above all things, see to it that your souls are happy in the Lord. Day by day seek to make this the most important business of your life." It is the key to the highest usefulness.

A number of United Evangelical pastors will meet at Polo on Wednesday for prayer, and conference, about the work of the churches. The entire day will be spent in the earnest consideration of definite lines of thought and work.

Rev. Unangst will present an important message to the church at the prayer meeting on Thursday evening. Come!

There are quite a number of subscribers to The Sunday School Times in Dixon. The paper has a large circulation among church people and its readers are steadily increasing in number. The issue for January 17th, contains a most timely article on, "The Devil's World-Wide Revival." The teaching corresponds with the message of the book, "Earth's Earliest Ages," by Pember. All subscribers to the Times should give the article a careful reading.

METHODIST MENTION.

Dr. Chas. M. Stuart will preach at the morning hour next Sunday.

Horace Mullins sang a beautiful solo at the evening service last Sunday. You cannot afford to miss these evening services.

ABSENT MINDED?

Well, You'd Better See About That Tooth!

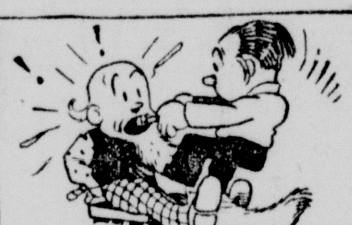

By LORRY A. JACOBS.
(N.E.A. Staff Correspondent.)
New York, Jan. 21.—Have you a bad tooth? Then prepare for the cuckoo house or the straight jacket for they're going to get you sooner or later.
If you find yourself growing absent-minded and putting the wrong end of your cigar in your mouth, trying to open your neighbor's door with your own key, or any other form of foolishness, go to the dentist or else call the ambulance and say, "Psychopathic ward" to the driver.

This is the dict of Dr. Henry A. Cotton, medical director of the New Jersey State Hospital for the Insane. The medical director says flatly that mechanical dentistry—that is, the art of saving damaged teeth—is unavailing as far as insanity is concerned, so the only thing left for you to do if you have a decayed tooth is to go to the dentist and let him yank it out.

And he has proof of the fact, for during 1919 he has been able to discharge 274 patients out of a total of 410, believed to be insane by the simple process of extracting their teeth or taking out their tonsils.

So if your aged relative who pos-

Just tie his hands, send for the dentist, have his teeth pulled out, and the next day, he'll probably make out his will in your favor and fire the y. and p. nurse.
